

Some people believe that unpaid community service should be a compulsory part of high school programs (for example working for a charity, improving the neighborhood or teaching sports to younger children).

To what extent do you agree or disagree?

It has been suggested that high school students must join in community services. Responsibility is one of the most important parts of life. It is better for them to be in society and improve their living conditions for a brilliant future in my opinion, it has not only positive effect on their life but also can make them independent. Sending students to work in community services helps them to be creative, learn new skills, collect professional cv.

We must make them to do their utmost, be useful in society. Unless they work hard, they won't be successful.

It helps them with revision of personal habits, and have better treatment in different situations, like teamwork, and family.

In addition, it is better in economic terms of economic because we do not pay a high salary for extra staff, we can only consider low salaries for students to encourage them to work better. Not only do they achieve experience but also it is economically good (به صرفه بودن).

Nowadays, unfortunately teenagers don't have after-school activities, they come back home from school, collapse in front of TV and play with their mobile phones, browse on the internet, etc.

They waste their time and energy in the wrong way. Community services help them how to tackle problems and save their time in a useful way.

Consequently, I agree with unpaid community service and it should be compulsory. It is surprisingly useful to cope with problems, and also a feeling of loyalty will be been improved.
